

Community Education Class Spring 2017

Introduction to Aquaponics

—Adam Fuller

This course provides an introduction to aquaponics, which combines hydroponics (growing plants without soil) and aquaculture (growing aquatic animals). Aquaponics is a low waste, low water use, high efficiency method of growing your own food. This course will teach the basics of how to build and maintain backyard scale aquaponics, and will provide a hands-on experience with aquaponics systems. No prior experience is necessary.

Course and Supply Fees will be collected at the time of registration.
